Amidst Recession and Economic Decline, One Local Business is Growing, Celebrating the Grand Opening of their New Office Building in Port St. Lucie

PORT SAINT LUCIE, Florida May 4, 2009-- Amidst difficult financial times, the national unemployment rate steadily rising - (President Obama reporting same in his national economic address April 14, 2009) - there is one South Florida institution, whose work is concerned solely with the wellbeing and protection of others, that is looking forward and up, celebrating the Grand Opening of their first freestanding office building.

Representing clients throughout South Florida from their West Palm Beach offices since 1997, Steinger, Iscoe & Greene recognized the opportunity to serve injury victims in the Port St. Lucie and Treasure Coast communities from a local office. In May 2005 the firm opened its second office location in the heart of Port St. Lucie in the Bank of America Building. Under the leadership of firm Partner Sean J. Greene, the Port St. Lucie office has achieved unprecedented results for injury victims over the past 4 years, successfully recovering more than $50 million for their clients to date.

Against a declining market Mr. Greene and his legal team have experienced growth, the reward of tireless dedication and professionalism. Mr. Greene has been known to burn the candle into the wee hours of the night on behalf of his clients' best interest and protection against big business and insurance companies. The 2008 Insurance Research Council study found that auto accident victims who were represented by a lawyer received 3 ½ times more money on average than those who went it alone.

The brand new Steinger, Iscoe & Greene office building will open its 507 NW Lake Whitney Place doors to clients and the Port St Lucie and Treasure Coast communities this Monday May 4, 2009. Ribbon cutting ceremony will begin at 8:30am with Councilman Christopher Cooper from the City of Port Saint Lucie Mayor's office, Mr. Sean J. Greene, Steinger, Iscoe & Greene firm partners and staff in attending. This is the first stand-alone office building for the firm, now with 4 major office locations in Miami, Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and Port St. Lucie.
